By ARTHUR BRISBANE. Pershing's report tells you: "This morning northwest of Verdun the first army attacked the enemy on a front of twenty miles and penetrated his line to an average depth of seven

When you read that you see twenty miles long a row of American soldiers, with clear eyes and firm ja s.

You see American flags, bullet holes in the flags, and absolute certainty of victory in the face of every man on that magnificent, long fighting line.

You see these men of America crouching, running, firing, bayoneting; this man drops wounded, that man drops dead, never to know the glorious news on this earth. Their comrades go on over THE Hindenburg line. And fighting and running and pursuing the vicious enemy, these men in one attack go seven miles. You have occasionally walked seven miles, perhaps. It is a long walk to even take leisurely. Imagine your brothers in the fighting their way for seven miles over shell holes, against machine guns, through barbed wire. Then faintly. The Presbyterian church has "overturned all precedents" by giving a lady, Mrs. Champman, of Elmira, N. Y., a license to preach. This is done under the pressure of war "under the spur of war

Under that spur ladies are allowed to guide the wandering sinner home from now on, in Presbyterian churches, as lady sheriffs in some Western towns are allowed to guide the wandering sinner the lock-up, and as lady conductors are permitted to collect the nickels of the home bound.

A thousand editors will quote Dr. Johnson's saying, "Sir, a woman's preaching is like a dog's walking on his hind legs. It is not done well, but you are surprised to find it done at all."

That is one of the foolish things that wise old Dr. Johnson said. Women have preached as well men. And a woman, Mrs. Eddy, is the only human being that has been able by her preaching to establish a religion and a church for many a year.

As to the right of women to Women followed the founder of Christianity to the foot of the cross and staved there to receive His dead body in their serted Him and his chief disciple had thrice denied Him. If women were good enough for that service they ought to be good enough to teach and preach the lessons that

After nearly two thousand years of Christianity, more or less di-luted, Christian civilizations, including our own, are tecter-teutering, doubtful about the wisdom of giving woman the ballot with which to protect herself against exploitation and injustice.

That women need the vote 's made clear in every country where there is any voting, at least once every day. For instance:

Women were working their lives out, for the lowest wages, injuring children unborn, and compelled to neglect their own children, in long hours of night work, at labor unfit for women. New York State passed a law against such treatment of women. The high court declared that the law was unconstitutional. It was, if you please, against the law of the land to pass a law to protect women from industrial slavery. It was necessary to go to the Supreme Court of the United States to get a decision that men who keep en political slaves at least had the right to protect them.

Now, work is offered to women in many directions, not out of consideration for them, but because the men are not there to do the work. Among other things women have found work as con-

Now, in one city the men conductors decide that they do not want women, lest they interfere later with men.

ing for the man who put in his orders early and has had stored all or part of the total he is to get. And the local fuel administration knows just how much each man ordered, what he claims he must have and what he has received. Suppose men had no right to vote, and women decided that men could work for a living only in places that women didn't want.

Wouldn't men demand the vote, and be justified in demanding it? What a pitiful thing that in this question of justice to the people, and after the President of the United States had most strongly urged woman suffrage, the United States, as a whole, still hesitates and wonders.

M'ADOO BUYS ALLIES TO GIVE YANKS SMASH THROUGH FOE LINES

With service bands playing in the streets, many of the nation's most conspicuous public men addressing crowds on street corners, and a great demonstration staged on the steps of the Treasury at noon, Washington formally and spectacularly started the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign with enthusiasm today.

An immense crowd gathered opposite the Treasury long before noon, and when Geraldine Farrar, the American prima donna, made her appearance and formally opened the District campaign by selling a $50 bond to Secretary McAdoo she was greeted by a chorus of cheers that could be heard for several blocks. The second purchaser of a bond from Miss Farrar was Secretary Lansing. She then announced that photograph of herself to all purchasers of bonds to the amount of
